Do you know how your business is performing at any given time? Can your operations executives and managers access orders, inventory, and shipment status on the go? Can you release and analyze warehouse workload on the road? HighJump™ One is a browser- and device-agnostic platform that delivers a common user experience and tools across the HighJump™ Supply Chain Advantage (SCA) software suite – including our enterprise warehouse, yard, labor, slotting, and billing management systems – and our in-store fulfillment execution suite.

Recent studies show that users prefer a program that is learnable, efficient, forgiving, and satisfying. With that in mind, we've built the HighJump One platform to deliver a consumer-friendly experience for everyone within your organization, from the executive to the warehouse worker.

SUPPLY CHAIN NETWORK SOLUTIONS

CONTROL BUSINESS PROCESSES DIRECTLY FROM ANY WEB BROWSER OR DEVICE

HighJump One's HTML5 user experience gives executive and operational users full access to supply chain execution functionality and visibility on any browser and device. Being able to access your WMS anywhere, at any time, enables users to maximize inventory flow, manage order fulfillment, eliminate late shipments, and avoid stock-outs – even when they're not at the desk.

Unlike other visibility products that offer only reporting, HighJump One empowers you to plan and manage inventory, processes, and people directly from a web browser, whether that be on your desktop, your tablet, or your phone. The platform can also advise mobile employees of critical operational events.

In addition, eLearning and event management tools ease onboarding and promote proactive business management.

ADAPTABLE TO THE WAY YOU DO BUSINESS

Consistent with the entire HighJump Supply Chain Advantage suite, the HighJump One platform enables configurability to the specific needs of every business. HighJump One gives power users the ability to modify or add new screens quickly and easily, without knowledge of programming languages. The platform also provides connectivity to information stored within external business systems and in various database types.

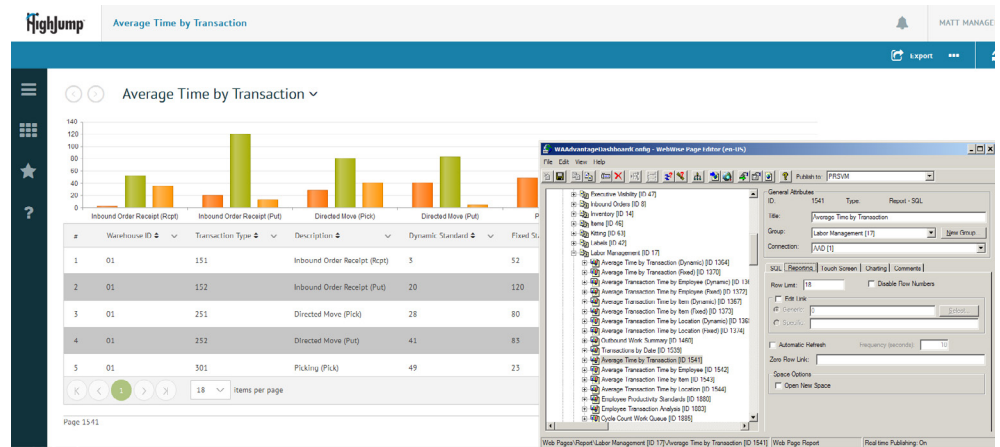

ONE INTEGRATED SUPPLY CHAIN PLATFORM

HighJump One serves as the new technology platform for all HighJump products. It is one unified platform, providing the same user interface across any HighJump solution with the ability to easily switch between those programs. This common UI makes training employees faster and easier. Every user will have access to the tools they need to complete their specific job. The singular platform also simplifies the work of your IT department because it can concentrate on one technological infrastructure.

HOW CAN YOUR TEAM USE HIGHJUMP ONE?

Here are a few of the advantages HighJump One offers:

- Multiple sites such as distribution centers, yards, and administrative offices can share business information over the web, eliminating constant emails and phone calls.
- Mobile users who spend extended periods of time away from the office can remotely check the status of orders, monitor inventory levels, and review workforce efficiency.
- External supply chain partners can utilize HighJump One to request appointments, monitor on-hand inventory levels, and review open orders.
- Key customers can have instantaneous access to the status of their orders, advanced shipping information, billing information, and available product quantities.
